"I know nothing can replace muscle loss, hearing or being able to see. But by pressing a button or pad, or blowing down a tube, I can do the things I used to take for granted. The fact that I can control my life easier through environmental control, has brought back a little dignity and hope for future years."

Paul Venn – EC user

Whatever level of care you require, maintaining as much of your independence as possible ensures the best quality of life.

Everyday tasks can be difficult to perform, and you may have to rely on relatives, nurses or carers to carry them out for you. It might be something as simple as switching on a reading light, but you have to wait for somebody to come to assist you.

Our Possum SMART room allows you, irrespective of your physical limitations, to control your immediate environment.

Imagine the feeling of freedom of being able to once again do those important everyday things for yourself. Imagine opening your curtains, making a telephone call, or changing TV channels – without the need for assistance.

By regaining control, you can enjoy greater privacy, comfort, security and a wonderful feeling of independence.

You can communicate easily with carers, friends and relatives – providing peace of mind for you and your family, knowing that you can call easily and instantly for assistance should you be in difficulty.
